

My Unicorn Family

I have been with this family since the youngest was 5 months old. I met them while working at the preschool the kids were attending. I started babysitting them on weekends while their parents went to work events or had date nights. I would feel bad if I had to say I couldn't watch them... selfishly, I didn't want them to find someone else.

After about a year or so of babysitting, they told me that the dad was offered a new job and that they would be moving 2.5 hours away. I was very sad that they would be leaving me. "Just come with us" they said half-jokingly. One thing lends to another and we worked out the details... and now here I am living with them.
